MILWAUKEE:

SATURDAY.....JUNE 10.

For President in 1856,
JOHN P. HALE, of New York.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
GEORGE W. JULIAN, of Indiana.

People's Mass State Convention,

AT MADISON, THURSDAY, JULY 13.

☞ ALL MEN opposed to the Repeal of the Missouri Compromise, the Extension of Slavery, and the Rule of the Slave Power, are invited to meet at Madison, Thursday, July 13, to take such measures as may be deemed necessary to prevent the future Encroachments of the Slave Power, to Repeal all Compromises in favor of Slavery, and to establish the Principle of Freedom as the Rule of the State and National Governments. The time has come for the Union of all Free Men for the sake of Freedom. There is but one alternative. We must unite and be free, or divide and be enslaved by the pretorian bands of the Slaveholders, and their Nebraska allies.

June 9th, 1854. MANY CITIZENS.

☞ Papers throughout the State, friendly to the objects of the above Call, please copy

JUDGE SMITH'S DECISION,

Against the constitutionality of the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850, based, as it is, on substantial grounds, and sustained by the clearest and strongest reasoning, will stand like a rock, mid the waves of conflicting and discordant opinions, and loom up in the future, as one of the great beacon lights, which have led the people out of the darkness of despotism, and the bondage of subjection to slaveholding and pro-slavery interpretations of the Constitution. It is the first of a series of decisions, which are soon to follow, till the doctrines he has asserted—that Congress has no power to legislate for the reception of fugitives from labor, to annul the right of such fugitives to trial by jury, or to clothe the Court Commissioners with judicial power—shall be established as the law of the land.

This decision will tower up, in all coming time, in the pathway of Judicial precedents, as the Somerset case does in England; with this striking difference, that, in England, the great decision in favor of Freedom was wrung from a reluctant Judge, after repeated trials and postponements, while in Wisconsin, the Judge of the Supreme Court met the question boldly, and decided it promptly and cheerfully. To Wisconsin, the noblest State of the Free West, belongs the honor of establishing the first Great Precedent in favor of Freedom, and of arresting the progress of Federal usurpation and tyranny, and to Judge Smith are the people of Wisconsin and the Union indebted for such a Decree.

The Judicial authority of a Sovereign State has been interposed to protect the humblest citizen from outrage, and the power of the Federal Executive and of a Federal Congress is impotent to deprive any man in Wisconsin, high or low, rich or poor, white or black, of his liberty, without proof, before a jury of his peers, that he is not entitled to his Freedom. The all-protecting shield of Justice has been thrown over the people of this Commonwealth, and the voice of a Sovereign State has uttered the mandate, to all the officers of the Federal Government within its limits, "Thus far, and no farther."

To this decision there will be a response from the people of the Free States, deep as the fountains of justice and strong as the love of liberty in the human soul, loud and unbroken as the swelling voice of the ocean waves, and joyous and jubilant as the songs of freemen after a great victory. Partizans may condemn it, and lawyers, who accept, unquestioned, the expositions of slaveholding and pro-slavery Judges, may doubt and dogmatize, but the answering AMEN of the People will drown all dissentient voices, and this decision will stand as long as the Constitution or Freedom endures. It will stand, because it is law—Constitutional law—and the Judicial decisions of the country will, sooner or later, confirm it, for the people love Liberty; and Eternal Justice and Eternal Truth will triumph over Injustice and Wrong, and breathe their spirit upon the Judges of the Land, as well as into the hearts and legislation of the people.

The Supporters of Nebraska.

The News represents that the "Banner" and "Volksfreund" opposed the Nebraska Bill because the Native American clause was in it, and withdraw their opposition now because that clause is stricken out. Not quite so fast. They opposed it before the Native American clause was inserted in the bill. They did.

The News further says, "the Irish and Germans generally are predisposed to support the bill on the ground that so many of the Clergy have arrayed themselves as a body against it." And it compliments the Catholic clergy for not opposing it.

Before the passage of this Bill, all the territory of the Union, north of 36° 30', was consecrated to Freedom. Now it is all open to Slavery. If it be true that the Irish and Germans and Catholics are gratified with such a change, it is certainly no great compliment to them, and we shall be slow to believe it. The great majority of the German presses oppose it strongly, and we shall see how this attempt of the News to enlist the Catholics on the side of Slavery succeeds. No Church can long prosper in this country which arrays itself on the side of civil despotism, and he is the worst enemy of the Church who represents it to be opposed to civil Freedom and in favor of Human Slavery.

The Chicago Press advises the people to stick to their old party organizations. It is as anxious to have the Whigs stick to their organization as the Democrats to theirs. It clearly sees that a union of the people must be the death of the sham Democracy.

The Kenosha Telegraph thinks Thomas H. Benton, is the man for the next President.—Perhaps he is, but there is time enough to talk about that, when we know what is to be done by the people in other matters.

The Boston Tragedy.

The Boston papers come to us full of indignation against the proceedings in the Burns case. Boston has never been so excited since the Revolution. Of the volunteer guard of the slave in the procession, the Atlas thus speaks:

"A body of some 125 individuals, (we cannot call them men,) who had offered themselves to the Marshal for duty, were drawn up in the form of a hollow square, in the center of which was the poor fugitive, the United States Marshal and his officers. They were armed with pistols and drawn cutlasses. This body-guard was composed of the dregs of society; nearly all were blacklegs and thieves, most of whom have been or ought to be inmates of our prisons. The sight was a disgrace to a city which claims the title of the Athens of America, and the sooner the aid of such men is refused by Government officers, the earlier law will be considered as law, and not as an exhibition of brute force."

To such a condition were the authorities reduced, that the Atlas says they resorted to "the employment of ruffians from our brothels as guardians of the majesty of law. All this and more than this our citizens have been forced to endure. Is it to be wondered at that an entire revulsion has taken place in our community, and that the repeal of a statute which subjects us to such indignities, in order to restore to Slavery the fugitives from those who trample upon compromises, should now be as earnestly demanded as that majesty of law should be vindicated by means which do not degrade and debase our common nature!"

The Commonwealth says:

Passing down Court street, the procession crossed the locality of the Boston Massacre of in 1775, and the hoofs of horses, and the feet of hired ruffians, as well as those of the victim Burns, trod upon the spot where died Chrispus Attucks, the first colored martyr of the American revolution, as Anthony Burns is the last victim of that Republican Government which that Revoluton Inaugurated!

Legal Criticisms.

The Wisconsin of last evening, publishes a legal criticism on the opinion of Judge Smith, the substance of which is, that the fact that the law has been executed, that Judges have declared it constitutional, is conclusive that the law is right, and Judge Smith wrong. The writer ignores the fact that the law has always been held unconstitutional by a large portion of the legal profession as well as the people, thinks Judge Smith is too young in the legal profession to know much, and Wisconsin a sort of backwoods place, and therefore, its judiciary ought not to assume to know much, and other twaddle of the same sort.

Mother Goose, in this morning's News, sings over her Slave lullaby melodies, to the key of "G" flat, and a very flat piece it is, for it does not meet one of the points made by Judge Smith, in his Opinion. It is a silly attempt at ridicule, which is an admission that there are no arguments to be offered against it. Nothing has yet been said against it, worthy the name of criticism.

The News has the effrontery to declare that the Missouri Compromise "authorized and required the existence of Slavery in all the States and Territories south of the line of thirty-six, thirty, and allowed the people of the States and Territories everywhere to vote for themselves whether they will tolerate Slavery or whether they will reject it."

The Missouri Compromise simply prohibited Slavery north of 36° 30', admitted Missouri as a Slave State, and left all Stvies and Territories south of that line in the same condition they were before. The News has become so habituated to falsehood, that we suppose it can't well help lying, especially when Slavery has the benefit of it.

The Know Nothings.

An organization, by this name, seems to be carrying all before it, in our principal cities.—It is the reaction of clannishness on the part of naturalized citizens. Acting in a body, so as to control our elections, they beget the spirit of Native Americanism. Both sides are wrong. Naturalized citizens have just the same rights as native born citizens, and no better.—We deprecate clannishness in the one just as we do Native Americanism in the other. Time and experience will correct both errors.

STATE CONVENTION.—The Beloit Journal heartily seconds the proposition for a Mass State Convention at Madison, the 13th of July. It says:

"The time is short, before the 13th of July, but long enough to let the call be spread. If there is a spirit to respond to the call, there is time enough for it to do it. Let the Press do its duty. If the North is in earnest, they must manifest that earnestness by some positive expression, which will remove from them the charge of hollow pretension.

"Shall we have a mass convention at Madison on the 13t of July?"

NEBRASKA BANK BROKE.—Quite an excitement took place at the Chicago Postoffice, on Monday evening last, in consequence of the Postmaster not paying the men ten cents per hour, and the boys three cents, for marching in procession to the Nebraska fizzle, on Saturday night, as he agreed to. It appears the Nebraska Bank had failed, and the Postmaster had left for Rock Island. The row was finally quelled by the Police interfering, and arresting and committing a number of the dissatisfied creditors.

The Kenosha Democrat, in speaking of Judge Smith's decision, says:

"Judge Smith is a gentleman of eminent ability and candor. We do not know a man who can bring to the investigation of such a question a more dispassionate judgment. We have heretofore thought there was not any force in the objection, respecting a jury trial, but shall wait with great interest the appearance in print of the decision."

A FINISHED ORATOR.—We have often seen this phrase but have not hitherto been able to understand its precise meaning. The last Argus, however, furnishes us with an exact measuring stick in the person of Arthur McArthur, Esq., who is to deliver the 4th of July oration at Waupun.

SIGNS.—The Sandusky (Democratic) Mirror seconds the call for a State Anti-Nebraska Convention of Ohio, the 13th of July.

This paper also goes for the removal of the Capital to a free State. So does the Detroit Tribune. So do we.

FUGITIVE SLAVES AT OSWEGO.—The Oswego Times states that three fugitive slaves had shipped on board the Steamer Ontario, with the owner in pursuit, who was too late to take out papers for their detention. He had telegraphed to Sacketts Harbor to have them stopped.

Mass Convention at Madison.

We publish this morning a call for a Mass Convention at Madison on the 13th of July next, to take counsel together and to make effective the settled and growing hostility of the People of this State to the Nebraska Iniquity, as to all further Compromises with Slavery. The day chosen is the same as that fixed upon for similar objects, in Ohio and Michigan; the anniversary of the immortal Ordinance of 1787. The end proposed is one which must commend itself to every lover of Freedom, every hater of Slavery within the limits of our State. We have indeed no State Officers to elect the coming Fall, but there are Members of Congress to be chosen, and a Legislature to elect upon whom will devolve a choice of a United States Senator. The proposed Convention may do much to ensure concert of action in these matters among the friends of Freedom throughout the State; and if it does no more than embody and put in shape Wisconsin's indignant protest against the Nebraska Outrage, it will have accomplished a great and good work. We hope to see, on this occasion, a noble rally of the Freemen of our State, to lift up their voices in earnest reprobation of the foul wrong which has been done to the North, and to put on record their fixed determination henceforth and forever to resist all aggressions of Slavery, and to rebuke and repudiate those Northern Doughfaces who have wounded Freedom in the house of her own friends.—Sentinel.

We are informed that George Dodge, of Dodgeville, in this county, a young man about 16 years old, and Grandson of Ex-Gov. Dodge, was lost from a surveying party in the north part of this State a few weeks since, and fears are entertained that he has perished from starvation. The company with which he was engaged, had proceded some fifty miles in advance of their provision wagons, which, for some reason, remained behind. The company being unable to proceed farther, without food, returned to the camp.—When about two miles from camp, young Dodge, either from fatigue or some other cause, stopped by the way. His companions, who proceded to the camp, after waiting for his arrival until their fears were raised that he might have lost his way, returned and commenced a search for him, but up to the last accounts received, which are seven days from the time he was left by the company, no intelligence of him has been received, although diligent search has been made during the whole time.—Mineral Pt. Tribune.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—The June meeting of the Executive Committee was held in the capitol at Madison, on the evening of the 6th inst. Sixty-seven letters were announced as having been received since the last meeting

Fifty-nine volumes were announced as received during the last month from donors, and ninety-six others either deposited with our eastern agents, or tendered to the Society.

J. P. Atwood, Esq., was unanimously elected Librarian in place of Rev. C. Lord, who has removed from the State. Messrs. Draper, Hunt and Atwood, were appointed a committee to rent a room for the Library, collections and meetings of the society, in the basement of the new Baptist Church, and fit it up for use.

Charles Stearns, Esq., of Mass., and Dr. Samuel M. Hunt, of N. Y., were elected corresponding members; and Messrs. N. B. Van Slyke, D. M. Seaver, and E. H. Gleason active members.

TAKING THE RIGHT GROUND.—The Whig Congressional Convention met at Pittsburgh on the 31st, renominated David Ritchie, and passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That for the future the South must take care of itself—take care of its peculiar property, supply its own bloodhounds and doughfaces—the freeman of the North design to, and will, crush out and exterminate the breed.

Resolved, That in view of the dangers of the crisis—a crisis overriding all party distinctions—we hereby pledge ourselves as soldiers in the cause of Freedom—we inscribe Free Men, Free Labor, and Free Lands upon our banner, and enlist for the whole year.

The decision of Judge Smith, noticed under our telegraphic head, will be observed by all our readers. We believe this is the first decision of the kind ever made, and we hail it as the dawning of a new era. Judge Smith's positions can be incontrovertibly sustained, and we are sure when his opinion comes to be seen at length, it will be found he has so sustained them. Ten years hence it will be a matter of astonishment that any other opinion of the law should ever have been entertained.—Kenosha Telegraph.

AFFRAY.—We learn that Mr. Reed, of Darlington, was attacked on Saturday evening last at King's, three miles west of Darlington, by an Irishman, a railroad laborer.—He seized Mr. R. by the hair and commenced beating him in the face, when Reed drew a knife and inflicted several severe wounds on the head, throat, and arms of the Irishman. Dr. Ladd happening along at the time, dressed his wounds, and it is probable that he will recover.—Shullsburg Pick and Gad.

NAMES OF THE LOST.—The New York Tribune of the 3d inst. has a full list of the names of all the persons lost on the ship Powhattan, which was wrecked on the coast of New Jersey, April 15th. With the exception of the officers, all the passengers were German and French,—29 being from Prussia, 104 from Baden, 108 from Wurtemberg, 46 from Bavaria, 2 from Hesse, and 21 from France. A full list of their names can be seen at that office.

The Storm.—A North East storm of great violence, came upon us Tuesday afternoon last, and continued, without intermission, until Thursday afternoon. The gale came on so suddenly, and continued so long, that vessels and steamers out must have suffered much. No damage has been done here, except to gardens, in the prostration of fruit trees and shrubbery, and a portion of their fruit.—Sheboygan Secretary.

LAY PREACHING.—Hon. D. C. Gaskill delivered an address last Sunday morning, at Rev. Mr. Hutchins' church, on the subject of education in its connection with Sabbath schools.—It was full of sound sense, and should have been listened to by about fifteen thousand people in this state—only two hundred of whom were there.—Kenosha Democrat.

The Indianapolis State Sentinel gives from reliable data, the population of the principal cities and towns of Indiana. In this statement, New Albany is set down as containing a population of 17,000; Indianapolis, 16,000; Madison, 14,000; Evansville, 10,000; Lafayette, 9,000; Terre Haute, 9,000; Laporte, 7,000; Michigan City, 6,000.

RETURNED.—Our old fellow townsmen, John Griffin, arrived home from a sojourn in California, a few days since. Friend G. has been favored with fortune's smiles, and returns with a pocket full of rocks.—Shullsburg Pick and Gad.

Lease of the National Road.—The bids for leasing the National Road from Springfield to Wheeling, were opened at Columbus, on Monday, by the Board of Public Works. Joseph Cooper, of Cincinnati, was the successful bidder, at $6,501.

FIRE.—A Grist Mill belonging to Mr. R. Wadhams, in Clyde, was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. Cause, Smoking. Loss $5,000. No insurance.—Port Huron Commercial 3d instant.

Emigration.—We have never known as much emigration West as is going on the present season. Our streets are almost constantly filled with mover's wagons on their way west.—Portage City Republic.

IT appears that no one was killed in the recent riot at Brooklyn, Long Island.

HABEAS CORPUS TRIAL.

BEFORE JUSTICE SMITH.

In the matter of the Application of S. M. BOOTH for Discharge from Arrest on charge of violating the Fugitive Slave Act.

MONDAY, May 29—2½ P. M.

It remains for me now, in order to finish this branch of the subject, to examine some of the decisions that have been made sustaining the legislation of congress. These decisions have been made mostly concerning the law of '93. The question, however, so far as the objection I am now considering, is concerned, was the same under that law, as under the law of 1850. Almost the first case we find upon the subject, is that of Glen vs. Hodges, 9th Johnson, 67. It was decided in 1812. No objection was made to the law of '93, but it was treated as constitutional without question from any quarter. We find, also, in the 2d Pick. page 11, the case of the Commonwealth vs. Griffith.—In that case the law was objected to as unconstitutional because it provided that the person claimed might be seized without warrant. It was alleged that this infringed the right of the people to be secure from unreasonable searches, &c. This objection was overruled by the court But the question of the power of congress to legislate upon the subject was neither raised nor decided. This case was decided only a few years after the Missouri Compromise, which followed one of the great excitements upon this question. It will be seen that the court, following the lead of the politicians, decides that the constitution was a "compromise." It says in that instrument we agreed to treat slaves as property, though it admits that "the words of it were used out of delicacy," so as not to offend some in the convention, whose feelings were abhorrent to slavery." This looks very much like an admission that the words do not mean slaves, but this point I shall not urge. Of these two cases, I shall only say that they are not authorities against the objection I am now urging, because that objection was not raised in them.—On the contrary, by acquiescing in the validity of the law, without raising those objections, which have since agitated the highest tribunal of the States and nation, those cases furnish evidence of the assertion I have made here, that this legislation of congress had been acquiesced in, without that right examination its importance demanded. They are instances where the crooked boundary lines, between the two systems, were allowed to stand without complaint.

The decision of the Massachusetts Court, in the Sims case, already referred to, rests upon the decisions that had been previously made. I shall therefore confine my further examination to those decisions, and if their reasoning can be answered, of course the superstructure reared upon them, falls when the foundation is undermined.

I suppose the only decisions that stand in our way, are the opinions delivered in the case of Jack vs. Martin, in New York, and in the Prigg case, before the Supreme Court of the United States. I propose, therefore, to examine these at some length. But it may, perhaps, be proper in the first place to say, that the case of Jack vs. Martin, before the New York Court of Errors, is not an authority against us. Chancellor Walworth delivered an opinion against the constitutionality of the law, and Senator Bishop, one in its favor. But the Chancellor, not withstanding his opinion, voted to affirm the decision of the court below, on the ground that by the pleadings, the fugitive admitted himself to be a slave. This was the only point decided in the Court of Errors. The vote of the court was unanimous, but how many were of the same opinion as the Chancellor, and how many of that of Senator Bishop, does not appear. For aught that appears in the report, all except Senator Bishop, may have believed the law to be unconstitutional.

I have said that I should endeavor to show that these decisions were in violation of well settled rules of construction. I shall now proceed to that attempt, and shall point out the rules that I claim have been violated.

In the first place, let me invite the attention of the court to the further consideration of the implied powers, that congress may legitimately exercise. In all the cases where its powers have been called in question, we see much about "implied powers," and it is therefore important to determine what kind of implied powers it may rightfully claim. And upon this subject I understand the rule to be, that it can claim none, except such as are implied, as incidental to some express power, and necessary to its execution. The authorities sustaining this rule I have already referred to. They lay it down in express terms. And I think it is to be derived, with equal clearness, from the whole course of reasoning, in those cases which have been regarded as stretching the power of congress even beyond its utmost verge. Take, for instance, the Bank case. The court there admits that Congress can exercise no powers not delegated to it, but claims that there is nothing in the constitution excluding implied powers. It then goes on to show what kind of implied powers it means. It says that it would have been impossible to specify all the "means" by which the government might carry into execution the powers granted, and that the instrument therefore expresses only the great powers, leaving congress at liberty to adopt such means as were necessary to their execution, and claiming that the power to adopt those means, was incidental to the express power. The court entered into a labored argument to show that congress might even go to this extent,—that it might even adopt the means necessary to carry into execution its express powers. It also claimed that the means need not be "indispensably necessary," but if they were ordinarily necessary and proper for the end, the degree of necessity was to be judged of by the legislature and not by the court. The court then says that although the power to incorporate a Bank is not among the enumerated powers of the government, yet that it has the great powers "to lay and collect taxes; to borrow money; to regulate commerce; to declare and conduct a war; and to raise and support armies and navies." It then proceeded to urge that a Bank was a necessary and proper means to carry into execution those great express powers, and placed its constitutionality upon that ground, and on that alone. This decision has been regarded by a great portion of the American People, as having carried the powers of congress entirely beyond their just limits. I have, therefore, alluded to it at some length, to show that even in that case, the only kind of implied powers claimed for congress, were such as were incidental to the execution of express powers. There must be an express power pointed out in the first place, before the doctrine of implied powers can be called into action at all. They must show a visible express trunk in the instrument itself, on which the proposed implied power is to be grafted, as incidental to its execution.

Now I shall endeavor to show that the decisions upon which I am commenting, violate this rule. And that they go out of the instrument into an investigation of the objects of the clause, and the "motives" for its insertion, and from an argument of convenience, imply in Congress a power,—not incidental to the execution of any other,—but an independent, substantive power, to carry this clause in execution.

I do not urge before this court, that it is not proper in in any case, to go into an investigation of the objects of a clause in order to construe it. This may be done where its meaning is doubtful. It may be done in construing the constitution as well as other instruments. Where a power is given, the extent of which is doubtful, the objects of it may be enquired into, in order to give it a just construction. Neither do I contend that when a power is given, it should receive a narrow and illiberal construction, that might defeat its purpose. It should be construed fairly and reasonably But what I contend for, is this; that so far as the constitution is concerned, the objects of a clause can only be enquired into in order to construe a "given power," and not to give a power. In the case of Gibbons vs. Ogden, 9th Con. R., on page 383, the court says,—"If from the imperfection of human language, there should be serious doubts respecting the extent of any given power, it is a well settled rule that the objects for which it was given, especially when those objects are expressed in the instrument itself, should have great influence in the construction." This language is confined to the construction of a "given power" It would be applicable in construing the powers "to regulate commerce," "to declare war," or any other express power of doubtful extent. But it affords no sanction for any court, admitting that the words of a clause confer no power on Congress, to enquire into its objects, for the purpose of implying in Congress as a matter of convenience to its accomplishment, an independent power to carry it into execution. Because the instrument expressly excludes from Congress such implied powers; and therefore to enquire into the objects and intention of a particular clause, in order to imply from those objects and intentions, a power in the General Government to execute it,—not given by the words, nor incidental to a given power, would be to make the intention of a particular clause, defeat the manifest intention of the whole instrument. It would open to the General Government the boundless and unexplored regions of implication, from which it might draw whatever power it desired.

Another rule of construction violated by these decisions, is that the intention of an instrument is to be gathered from its words. And that they are never to be departed from, except to avoid a difficulty that cannot be otherwise avoided. In the case of Ogden vs. Saunders 12th Wheaton 332, in an opinion delivered by Chief Justice Marshall, this rule is laid down as follows: "To say that the intention of the instrument is to prevail; that this intention must be collected from its words, &c.,—is to repeat what has been already said more at large and is all that can be necessary."

In the case of Sturges vs. Crowninshield, 4th Con. R., page 413, the Court says: "Before discussing this argument, it may not be improper to premise, that although the spirit of an instrument, especially of a constitution is to be respected not less than its letter, yet the spirit is to be collected chiefly from its words."

I shall show that these decisions leave the words of the instrument and go, without cause, into a historical investigation to arrive at its intention.

There is another rule that when there is no ambiguity there is no room for construction. This is laid down in the 1st Story's Commentaries on the Constitution, page 384, as follows:

"When its words are plain, clear and determinate, they require no interpretation, and it should be admitted, if at all, with great caution, and only from necessity, to escape some absurd consequence, or to guard against some fatal evil." And after alluding to some instances, where questions might arise from the doubtful meaning of words, he says:—"Whenever such questions arise, they will probably be settled, each upon its own peculiar grounds; and whenever it is a question of powers, it should be approached with INFINITE CAUTION, and affirmed only on the most unquestionable grounds."

Now, sir, I contend that there is no ambiguity in this fugitive clause, as to the power that is to carry it into execution. There has always been a great question in the minds of many, whether the words applied properly to slaves.—There might be some ambiguity upon them, but that has not arisen in any of these cases. There is no ambiguity on any other point. The words are plain and clear. The fugitive is not to be discharged by the States, but is to be delivered up. But it is said the claims does not properly by whom he is to be delivered up, and therefore there is an ambiguity. I think I have already shown to the court, that the plain, natural import of the words is, that he is to be delivered up by the States. Individuals had fails to claim, and that the wonderfully complex thing to be done, without saying who should do it, or in what manner it might be done, without any ambiguity then, as to which shall do it? Clearly not? There might be, if the presumptions were equal in favor of the two powers; but this is not so. The General Government must show its authority,—the States need not.—If the words do not prescribe which power may execute the clause, of course they do not give the General Government authority to execute it. Therefore the States come in by the 10th amendment, and bear off this power, as they do all others, not delegated to the General Government.—Looking at the whole instrument, therefore, there is no ambiguity as to which this power belongs.

And now let us proceed to the decisions themselves.—And in the first place, I will ask the attention of the court again, to the manner in which Senator Bishop, in the 14th Wendell, sets out, upon his enquiry into the objects of the clause. I have already referred to it once, but it is so remarkable as to be worthy of a second examination. He says:

"Is the absence of any precise authority in the constitution, in regard to the removal of fugitive slaves, to become important to enquire as to the motives of the members of the convention WHO REPRESENTED THE SLAVEHOLDING STATES, and the considerations which were likely to operate most powerfully upon them."

Sir, we could hardly have hoped that they who had determined to sustain this power, would have so frankly admitted the dangerous rule by which they were to arrive at the conclusion! The Senator says that the authority he seeks is not in the instrument. He starts, therefore, in pursuit of it, and where does he go? Does he enquire into the motives of the people who adopted the constitution? Does he even enquire into the motives of the convention that framed it? Not at all. He goes to "the motives of those members of the convention WHO REPRESENTED THE SLAVEHOLDING STATES!" So one-sided and dangerous a rule of construction was never broached in any tribunal before. It bears the seal of its condemnation on its own forehead! If the rule laid down in this bold avowal, is to prevail, all others must be overthrown, and all safety is at end. But the Senator practiced upon his rule. (Mr. Paine here read at length from the opinion and then proceeded.) It will be seen from what I have read that he comes to the conclusion that the object of this clause, was to secure the recapture of fugitive slaves—that he thinks the States would fail to abide by the obligation if left them—that congress can accomplish its object more effectually, and more for the convenience of the owners, than the States, and therefore the clause should be so construed as to give congress the power! This is the sum and substance of the argument, and I submit that it is a plain and palpable violation of all those settled rules to which I have called the attention of the court.—The Senator, at the begining, professes an intention to abide by the rule as to incidental powers. But he points out no power to which he claims this is incidental. On the contrary, he implies it as an independent power in the General Government, because he thinks that government can execute the clause better than the States. Upon the propriety of making such an investigation into motives, as was made by the Senator, I refer the court to the 2d of Story's Commentaries, page 333, where, in speaking of this doctrine, he says,

"Such a doctrine would be novel and absurd. It would confuse and destroy all the tests of constitutional rights and authorities. Congress could never pass any law, without an inquisition into the motives of every member, and even then they might be re-examinable. Besides, what possible means can there be of making such investigations? The motives of many of the members may be, nay, must be, utterly unknown, and incapable of ascertainment by any judicial or other inquiry; they may be mixed up in various manners and degrees; they may be opposite to, or independent of each other. The constitution would thus depend on processes utterly vague and incomprehensible, and the written intent of the legislature upon its words and acts, the lex scripsa would be contradicted or obliterated by conjecture, and parol declarations and fleeting reveries and heated imaginations. No government on earth could rest for a moment on such a foundation. It would be a constitution of sand, heaped up and dissolved by the flux and reflux of every tide of opinion. Every act of the legislature (and for the same reason also every clause of the constitution) must therefore be judged of from its objects as intent, as they are embodied in its provisions."

Judge Nelson, who delivered the opinion of the Supreme Court of New York, in this same case of Jack vs. Martin, in the 14th Wendell, says: "It is material to look into the objects of this clause of the Constitution, the evil to be guarded against, and the nature and character of the rights to be protected and enforced in order to comprehend its meaning, and determine what powers, and to what extent may be rightfully claimed under it." If it were admitted that the general government was to do, whatever is to be done, to execute the clause, this rule might be correct. But when it is admitted that the words vest no power in that government—to enquire into the objects of the clause to determine whether Congress has the power to execute it or not, I have already attempted to show, is a violation of the settled rules of construction and of the constitution itself.

But the Judge accordingly proceeded, and made a similar but rather stronger argument of convenience, than was afterwards made by Senator Bishop in the Court of Errors. (Mr Paine here read at some length from the opinion.) It is plainly and palpably nothing more than an argument of convenience. The Court thinks the States would not execute the clause faithfully—that it would have been unwise to have left it with them—that Congress can accomplish it more effectually—therefore they intended to give Congress the power, and therefore Congress has the power! That is all there is of it! A mere argument of convenience, from which the court implies in Congress a power, not incidental to some other, but independent, standing by itself.

LETTER FROM CASSIUS M. CLAY.

What shall the Friends of Republicanism do?

To the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune:

SIR: When some years ago I had the honor of replying to an invitation of a portion of the members of the New York Legislature to address them upon the Slavery question, I was thought by many a fanatic, because I avowed that it was not a question about the African, but "whether we ourselves should be freemen or slaves." Since then what is there sacred in the constitution, in treaties, in laws, in guaranties of liberty, which has not been desecrated?

And now at last those "compromises" by which so many of us were humbugged—which were exalted above the "higher law" of Revelation and Conscience, are themselves trampled under foot—and by the repeal of the Missouri restriction, by revolutionary means, a continent lies in the dust at the feet of the slavocrats!

Thus far our republicanism is a failure Shall we "give up the ship?" Shall we return as the dog to his vomit, and clothe ourselves once more in the cast-off rags of despotism, admitting ourselves incapable of self-government and national existence?

For my part, though sad—very sad, I am not despondent. Let us use the reason God has given us to remedy the past, and make secure the future. The violation of God's laws is always wo. We committed a national crime in joining hands with the slaveholders to commit a determined wrong against the rights of the African, and now in due season the poisoned chalice is returned to our own lips.

I am not prepared to say, with the Garrisonians, that we are to break away at once by revolution from this criminal alliance; but I do say that our only salvation, because the only true repentance, is in making the overthrow of Slavery our dominant idea.

The one idea of the slaveholders, which overrides all principles and measures, is the rule of Slavery. So it must be met, not incidentally—not occasionally—not compromisingly, by the friends of liberty, but with a oneness of purpose, and vivacity and fanaticism of will equal to theirs.

Does any man believe that in a fair contest between Liberty and Slavery, the wrong will triumph? I do not.

What then shall be done?

1. In the first place, punish the traitors, as an example for all future times. I honestly believe that every man of the free States who voted for the repeal of the Missouri restriction deserves death! But there is no legal way of inflicting the penalty—the halter, then, they must escape. But one thing can be done—break them on the wheel of public opinion. Let no man deal with them in business, banish them from the social circle, and disfranchise them practically forever! This seems hard, but the race of traitors must die before we can live.

2. Let the elections, even for the most inferior offices, turn upon the repeal of the Nebraska bill, or its amendment, so that the people of the territo.y shall have the unqualified right to vote Slavery out. To do this, the free trader must give up his free trade,—the tariff man, his tariff,—manufactures, shipping, internal improvement, temperance, schools, all must, for the present, be held in abeyance to the one great question, shall America be free or slave!

3. Although I think the Free Democracy are best based to achieve the end, we must tolerate and recognize all parties who will aid, as allies. In a Congressional District where the Free Democrats have a supposed larger force, let the Whigs and Democrats renominate the Free Democratic ticket. And where the Whigs or Democrats have a supposed larger force, let the Free Democrats renominate the Whig or Democratic ticket; so as to defeat the servites of all parties. In the Presidential Nominating Convention, let a delegate be sent from each Congressional District in the Union, of that party which has the Congressman, and let them vote a common candidate. Such a candidate, thus nominated, can, in my opinion, be elected triumphantly in 1856 Let that candidate, whether Benton, Seward, or Hale, or any other good citizen, be chosen without regard to his locality in a Free or Slave State. For our party is truly national—theirs sectional!

4. Let us count the cost. All are, I imagine, now convinced that the extreme South is anticipating the dissolution of the American Union, and have been and now are using the nation all the time for their own ultimate aggrandizement. We must therefore calculate what is to be the result of our success. Suppose then a Republican elected President, on the issue above stated, and that the ultras of the South in their madness overawe the more thoughtful citizens, and secede from Congress, and declare the Union dissolved. Then either we must whip them in, or allow a peacable separation as circumstances shall warrant. If we fight her, we have the advantage of being the Government de facto. We have the organization—the treasury—the navy, and the army.—If defeated, we would be abundantly able to maintain our national existence against the world. And with Canada, Western Virginia, Kentucky, and Mississippi (which would probably unite with us) annexed, we would form a more powerful people than even now.

In such event all the central portion of North Americ[illegible]ould be ours, and should Northern Mexi[illegible] our alliance, as she no doubt woul[illegible] upon all sorts of soils in [illegible] would even be able to rai[illegible]lant, and the sugar cane, for which s[illegible] now willing to sell their liberties.

Under the [illegible]ystem, we have less need to regard boundaries by mountains and watercourses, and even in that respect the lakes, the St. Lawrence, and the Columbia, to us would be what the Mississippi is now. While the oceans would wash us on the north-east and west, we could well bide our time to expand our dominions over the feeble masters of the South to the Gulf of Mexico.

But the probabilities are that the South would see her only safety in the Union and "acquiesce" in the "manifest destiny" of the triumph of human rights, and begin in earnest to clear herself of Slavery. Till at last we would become peaceably a homogeneous people, and "Liberty and Union" be forever established.

But I have already made this letter too long.

For myself, I am ready to complete the sacrifice and triumph of our fathers of 1776, at all hazards. I am for no Union without Liberty—if need be through dissolution and war. "I stand by the Declaration," trusting ever, till Republicanism is vindicated and the liberties of mankind is achieved.

Very respectfully, your friend,

C. M. CLAY.

Air Line Road from New York to the Mexican Gulf.

The capitalists of New York City have had a meeting at the Aster H[illegible] and resolved to build an air line from [illegible]k to the Gulf of Mexico. The Post [illegible]ourse. It will start at Raritan Bay, [illegible] to Cape May, 120 miles, (with a gr[illegible]more than five feet to the mile, passi[illegible] the great marl region,) thence to Cape Lo[illegible] twelve miles, thence to Cherry Stone, at [illegible] Charles, opposite Norfolk, Va., or 20 mile[illegible] in Delaware, 30 miles in Maryland, 95[illegible] Virginia—the whole distance being, say 260 miles; cost, four millions. When completed so far, it is [illegible]be put in connection with Southern Lin[illegible]t or to be built, direct to Charlotte Ha[illegible]

The New Yorkers calcul[illegible] a line would bring their, ship [illegible]ance of Norfolk; Charleston thirty-[illegible]h thirty-eight; Mobile forty-six; N[illegible] fifty-two; Havana fifty-eight! [illegible] As the Southern lines are straighten[illegible] these short periods will be lessened.

The Lewis Ludington.—This beautiful [illegible] was launched here, on Saturday last. [illegible] tons burden, and is intended for the Chicago and Oconto lumber trade.—Sheboygan Journ.

ACQUITTAL OF RANKIN.—The trial of Wm Rankin, at Patterson, N. J., on a charge of murdering his wife several months since by poisoning, lasted about a week, and terminated on Wednesday, June 1st, in a verdict of not guilty. The Jury were out 18 hours. When the verdict was announced, Mr. Rankin arose and addressed the Court at some length, declaring that he had entertained no fears as to the result The Court in reply said that he had placed himself in a very perilous situation, as it had taken eighteen hours deliberation by the Jury before agreeing upon a verdict of acquittal; and admonished him never again to place himself in jeopardy.

We see that there is quite a unanimous feeling in regard to holding a State Convention at Madison, on the 13th of July, the anniversary of the passage of the North West Ordinance of Freedom, to take such action as is demanded of Freemen, in view of the aggressions of Despotism, on the Free Domain of the Nation. We think such a Convention should be held, and hope to see the positive call issued ere long.—All that is wanted now, is, for the call to be published, and it will be responded to with a will. —Fond du Lac Freeman.

Loss of the Bark Appleton.

BOSTON, June 5.—The bark Appleton, from Baltimore, for Boston, was run into on the night of the 3d inst, off Cathan, by the bark Milford, from New York for this port The Appleton sunk in five minutes, carrying down two seamen. The rest of the crew escaped. The Milford sustained no damage.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 5.—A large elephant attached to a Menagerie, while on the way to Fall River, got beyond the control of his keeper, and killed three horses on the road, smashed the wagons, and seriously injured two men, who were in the wagons The elephant was finally captured near Slade's Ferry, and taken to Fall River.

SAVANNAH, GA., June 5.—The wreck of the steamer Thomas Wright is nearly sunk. There are 20 men on the wreck, and it is feared they will perish.

The boats cannot reach them on account of heavy weather.

MOBILE, June 4.—The bark Verona, before reported on Lower Bay, was burned to the water's edge. Total loss.

THE HAR-HARVEY REMEDIES!
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS!

THESE PILLS being composed entirely of vegetable herbs are of a most harmless nature, while the extraordinary virtues they possess have rendered them universally popular in nearly every part of the world. The immense success they have met with throughout the States is most extraordinary, owing, it is presumed, to their wonderful efficacy in the cure of the following complaints and disorders of the Liver and Stomach. Persons who persevere in using them in accordance with the directions, seldom fail in being restored to health.

Weakness and Debility.—Restoration to Health of a Gentleman, aged 45, when at Dent's Diner.

Copy of a Letter from the Rev. Charles Smith, Rector of Moreton, St. Phillips, near Bath, Somersetshire, Aug. 19, 1853.

To PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY—

SIR: A Mr. Joseph Pearce, formerly an inhabitant of this place, had been in a declining state of health for upward of three years, gradually wasting away, he, though by nightly perspirations and want of appetite, [illegible] great inconvenience to his friends, as he had [illegible] medical men in Bath, without effect. He at last [illegible] Pills, and under Providence was restored to [illegible] health. He lately emigrated to New York, and has just written to say, that he was never better in health, and desired me to acquaint you with the circumstance. I ought also to mention, that my wife had derived great benefit from the use of your Pills.

I remain, sir, yours respectfully,
CHAS. SMITH, Dissenting Minister.

A Permanent Cure of a Diseased Liver, of Many Years' Duration.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Gamble, Chemist, Tooth, to Professor Holloway.

Dear Sir: In this district your Pills command a more extensive sale than any other proprietary medicine before the public. As a proof of their efficacy in Liver and Bilious Complaints, I may mention the following case: A lady of this town, with whom I am personally acquainted, for years was a severe sufferer from disease of the Liver and digestive organs. Her medical attendant assured her that he could do nothing to relieve her sufferings, and it was not likely she could survive many months. This announcement naturally caused great alarm among her friends and relations, and they induced her to make a trial of your Pills, which so improved her general health, that she was induced to continue them until she received a perfect cure. This was twelve months ago, and she has not experienced any symptoms of relapse. Gratitude declares that your Pills have been the means of saving her life.

I remain, Dear Sir, yours truly,
July 27th, 1852. (Signed) J. GAMBLE.

These celebrated Pills are wonderfully efficacious in the following complaints:

Ague	Dropsy	Inflammation	Sore Throats
Asthma	Dysentery	Jaundice	Stone & Gravel
Bilious Complaints	Erysipelas	Liver Complaint	Scorbutic Humors
Blotches on the Skin	Female Irregularities	Lumbago	Tic Doloureux
Bowel complaints	Fevers of all kinds	Piles	Ulcers
Colics	Fits	Rheumatism	Venereal Affections
Constipation	Gout	Retention of Urine	Worms of all kinds
Consumption	Head-ache	Scrofula or King's Evil
Debility	Indigestion	Weakness from whatever cause, &c., &c.

Sold at the establishment of Professor Holloway, 244, Strand, (near Temple Bar,) London, and also at his Estate in New York. Orders for Medicines to the Stamp addressed "T. HOLLOWAY, New York," will receive attention. Sold also by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicines throughout the United States, in Boxes at 37½ cts., 67 cts., and $1.25 each. To be had Wholesale of the principal Drug houses in the Union.

☞ There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each Box. jel5-dl

BY THOMAS MOORE

To those we love we pledge to-night!
But now attend, and stare not,
While I the simpler list recite.
Of those for whom we care not.

For loyal men, howe'er they frown,
If on the front they bear not,
That noblest gem that decks a crown,
The people's love—we care not

For slavish men, who bend beneath
A deeper yoke, yet dare not
Pronounce the will whose very breath
Would rend its links—we care not

For priestly men, who covet sway
And wealth, though they declare not;
Who point, like finger posts the way
They never go—we care not.

For martial men, who on their sword,
However it conquers, wear not
The pledge of a soldier's word,
Redeemed and pure—we care not

For legal men who plead for wrong,
And though to lies they swear not,
Are hardly better than the throng
Of those who do—we care not

For courtly men, who feed upon
The land, like grubs, and spare not
The smallest leaf where they can sun
Their crawling limbs—we care not.

For wealthy men, who keep their mines
In darkness hid, and share not
The paltry ore with him who pines
In honest want—we care not

For prudent men, who hold the power
Of love aloof, and bare not
Their hearts in any gardless hour
To beauty's shaft—we care not.

For all in short, on land and sea,
In camp or court who are not,
Who never were, or ere will be
Good men and true—we care not.

feb27 DECKER & SEVILLE

THE CATHOLIC PULPIT.—Containing a Sermon for every Sunday and Holiday in the year and for Good Friday. From the last revised London Edition

This most valuable and celebrated periodical has just arrived at C OTT'S Bookstore, 275 East Water street, where subscriptions will be received The work will be completed in semi-monthly numbers, making an 8vo volume of nearly 800 pages, at the low price of two dollars

To the practical judge of eloquence, this work presents a wide and varied ground of comparisons between the respective styles of French, English, German and Italian Oratory

C OTT is also Agent for the "Shepherd of the Valley," published at St Louis—a paper that deserves the widest circulation. june17
